Another point which should interest you, is your State pride.

Where can you find a Missourian who is not proud of St. Louis, or a Kentuckian who is not proud of Louisville? In those States every effort was made by the whole people of the State to build up their great cities, and you see the result. But extend to your own cities one-haif the facilities and privileges which were given to St. Louis and Louisville, and within ten years you will be able to point proudly to two, if not three, great cities and to your pride, to your pockets and to your pride, to your pockets and to your pride, to your pockets and to your pride, to your procest and to your procest and to your pride, to your procest and to your procest
